IN THE OLD TESTAMENT, Samuel was awakened from sleep by the voice of God calling his name. In the New Testament, Paul was knocked off his horse. Does God call in this way today? Usually not. One seminarian describes his experience of call: "I was very involved in my parish doing youth ministry and teaching religious education. and I was happy with that. But for some reason it wasn't enough. I had a nagging feeling that I wanted to do more for people." Do you feel you may be called to priesthood, sisterhood, or brotherhood?

My name is Jackie Imhof, and I have been a parishioner of Sacred Heart since I was born and I have been a Girl Scout since I started Kindergarten. I will be entering my junior year of High School this fall. Being a Girl Scout is a lot of fun and hard work. I am currently working toward my Gold Award. I thought what better place to combine two important things to me... my faith and my scouting experience. With that being said..... I hope you will come and craft with me! Each day we will do a few crafts and conclude our week an art show exhibiting the children's favorite crafts.

Volunteers entering 9th grade or above are needed. If you are interested in volunteering or to sign up for my camp please email me at shartsncraftsummercamp@gmail.com Hurry.... registration deadline is July 31. Thank you!

Saint of the Week

St. Philomena
August 11

While searching for the graves of martyrs in the catacomb of St. Priscilla, workers discovered, on May 24, 1802, the tomb or loculus of a girl martyr. It was closed by three earthenware slabs or tiles on which a legend was written in red paint, which when rearranged became Pax tecum Filumena - Peace be with thee, Filumena.

The name Filumena or Philomena (Beloved, in Greek) was taken to be the name of the martyr whose skeleton was found inside the tomb. It was that of a girl about fourteen years old and was entire except for the skull which was broken. The cement had a small vial with traces of what seemed to be blood and on the tomb were various symbols: two anchors, two arrows, a javelin, a flower or torch, and a palm. The tomb dated from the latter half of the 2nd Century.

For three years her sacred remains were preserved with other relics in Rome, and then in 1905 the pastor of Mugnano, near Naples, asked for the relics of the saint, hoping that through her intercession and by her presence in his church his parishioners would be restored to religious fervor. The relics were solemnly transferred to Mugnano and enshrined under an altar of the church. Soon numerous miracles occurred, and her fame spread through Italy, then to France and the rest of the world, bringing thousands to her shrine.

Among these was Venerable Pauline Jericot, foundress of the Propagation of the Faith, who was miraculously cured of a hopeless illness and who brought St. Philomena to the notice of St. John Baptiste Vianney, the Curé of Ars. He in turn erected a shrine of the saint in his church and recommended her warmly to his clients. He called her his dear little saint, his agent in Heaven, and ascribed to her the miracles which others attributed to him.

In 1837, Pope Gregory XVI authorized the veneration of the saint and permitted the clergy of the Nola diocese to celebrate Mass in her honor, a privilege soon extended to other dioceses. In 1855, Pius IX approved a proper Mass and Office for her feast. This Office states that though her life, her acts, and the kind of martyrdom she suffered have remained hidden, St. Philomena was a virgin and martyr, who came forth from the darkness of the catacombs and the obscurity of the past to adorn the altars of the Church.

St. Philomena is venerated as a virgin and martyr. She has been the object of great devotion of many saints. Many wonderful favors have been obtained through her intercession.
